Proposed Action

Background

On October 7, 2024, the public comment period closed for the draft Imagine 2050 plan, the Met Council's regional development guide. Imagine 2050 includes each of the Met Council's system and policy plans, including regional parks and trails, transportation, water resources, and housing.

At the November 7, 2024, Metropolitan Parks and Open Space Commission (MPOSC) meeting, Council staff will share a summary of the public comments that focus on the Regional Parks and Trails Policy Plan (draft policy plan) and outline next steps.

Comments on the draft policy plan were received from agencies, local governmental units, and the public, including the National Park Service and most of the regional park implementing agencies. Many commenters provided feedback via an online platform implemented by the Met Council specifically for the Imagine 2050 public comment period. Others provided comments via email, during the public hearing, or at one of over 20 Art + Policy engagement events. In addition to more traditional narrative comments, over 200 flags were sewn, 144 mural blocks were painted, and 16 Indigenous youth manifestos were written.

Given the variety of engagement opportunities at multiple scales, comments ranged from very broad (e.g., responding to the prompt, "what are your dreams for the region?") to highly specific (e.g., commenting on a draft action within the policy plan). Broad comments primarily came from the public and those attending Art + Policy engagement events. Specific comments came from regional park implementing agencies and local governmental units. At the November 7, 2024, MPOSC meeting, Council staff will provide examples of comments received, share key themes emerging from the public comment process, and solicit feedback on proposed policy plan direction.

While the focus of the November MPOSC meeting will be on public comments received, work continues on the draft Regional Parks and Trails Policy Plan and Regional Parks and Trails Planning Handbook (draft planning handbook). On December 5, 2024, Council staff will return to MPOSC with a draft final planning handbook. On January 9, 2025, Council staff will share a draft final Regional Parks and Trails Policy Plan for MPOSC's consideration. Imagine 2050 is proposed for adoption by the Metropolitan Council on February 12, 2025 (Table 1).

The draft policy plan is the result of numerous discussions with regional park implementing agencies, the Metropolitan Council's Committee of the Whole, Community Development Committee, and MPOSC, as well as extensive outreach to prioritized communities and the public. Engagement with MPOSC on Imagine 2050 began in August 2022, with focused discussions on updating the Regional Parks Policy Plan beginning in October 2022. A summary of the engagement appears in Table 2.
