Business

2024-27: Adoption of the Draft 2025-2028 Transportation Improvement Program (TIP), pending public comment (Joe Barbeau, MTS) – roll call

Joe Barbeau of the Metropolitan Council's Metropolitan Transportation Services office presented the draft 2025-2028 Transportation Improvement Program for consideration.

J. Barbeau highlighted that the TIP aims to balance investment across various transportation modes, ensuring that both transit and highway projects receive significant funding. This balance is crucial for addressing the diverse transportation needs of the region.

J. Barbeau mentioned that all federally funded projects must be included in the TIP to receive federal funding. Once the council approves the TIP, it will be reflected in the State Transportation Improvement Program (STIP), ensuring compliance with federal requirements.

J. Barbeau explained that the TIP needs to be released for a 45-day public comment period starting the next day, with final approval expected in August by the council.

Chair Thompson called for a motion to recommend adoption of the TIP. Nathan Coster made the motion and seconded by Jason Pieper from Hennepin County. The motion passed unanimously.

Information

Regional Solicitation Funding Options (Steve Peterson, MTS)

Steve Peterson of the Metropolitan Council's Metropolitan Transportation Services office presented the most recently updated regional solicitation funding scenarios. The scenarios are as follows:

- Midpoint: This scenario distributes funds evenly across projects.
- Safety: This scenario allocates additional funds to projects with high crash reduction benefits.
- Bike-Ped Heavy: This scenario shifts more funds to bicycle and pedestrian projects

Steve Peterson explained that the scenarios also include active transportation pilot projects using $15.8 million of sales tax funds. He highlighted the need for a balanced approach and invited feedback from the committee members.

Maddie Dahlheimer from Carver County expressed concern about shifting funds out of transit. She emphasized the importance of maintaining established modal funding ranges to ensure that transit remains a priority. She also mentioned that a separate solicitation for active transportation funds in 2025 might allow smaller communities to participate more effectively.

Cole Hiniker noted that the scenarios presented could result in Transit funding falling below the lower end of the modal range, which has not been done before. He suggested that this point should be clearly communicated to TAB. He also mentioned the importance of providing TAB with detailed information about the percentage of total score for each application and the total funding requested in each category. C. Hiniker emphasized that this information would help TAB make informed decisions and ensure a fair distribution of funds.

Jason Pieper from Hennepin County supported presenting this information to TAB but emphasized that it was TAB's role to decide on the funding distribution. He suggested that technical staff should provide all necessary information but remain neutral on specific recommendations. J. Pieper stressed that the role of the technical staff is to facilitate the decision-making process by providing accurate and comprehensive data.

Jerry Auge from Anoka County raised concerns about potential double-dipping of funds for projects that could receive both federal and active transportation funds. He pointed out that some projects might end up receiving multiple sources of funding, which could be problematic.

Elaine Koutsoukos noted that this issue would need to be carefully managed to ensure fairness and compliance with funding rules.

J. Auge suggested that clear guidelines should be established to prevent such situations and ensure a fair allocation of resources.

Darin Mielke from Carver County highlighted a specific concern regarding a project initially submitted as a modernization project that had to be changed to an expansion project due to design constraints. He questioned how such changes would be handled and whether they could impact the project's eligibility or scoring.

S. Peterson acknowledged the concern and mentioned that the project would need to be re-evaluated to ensure it meets the criteria for the new category.

Scott Janowiak from Metro Transit emphasized the importance of not shifting too much funding away from transit, as transit should remain a priority for the region. He expressed concerns about the potential long-term impacts of reducing transit funding and the need to maintain a balanced approach.

S. Janowiak pointed out that reducing transit funding could affect the region's ability to meet its transportation and environmental goals.

Nathan Koster from the City of Minneapolis stressed the need for clear communication and timely decisions regarding the allocation of active transportation funds to ensure that projects can proceed as planned. He noted that delays in the decision-making process could jeopardize the success of the pilot projects. Koster suggested that a streamlined process be established to expedite the allocation of funds and avoid unnecessary delays.

Heidi Scholl from MVTA expressed support for including additional projects in the overprogramming to ensure that Transit funding remains within the established modal ranges. She also emphasized the importance of maintaining flexibility in the funding process to accommodate changing project needs. H. Scholl mentioned that having a buffer in the funding allocation could help address unexpected changes in project scope or cost.
