Which of these are most important?

Do they make sense?

What might be missing?

What are key interrelationships?

Regional Values

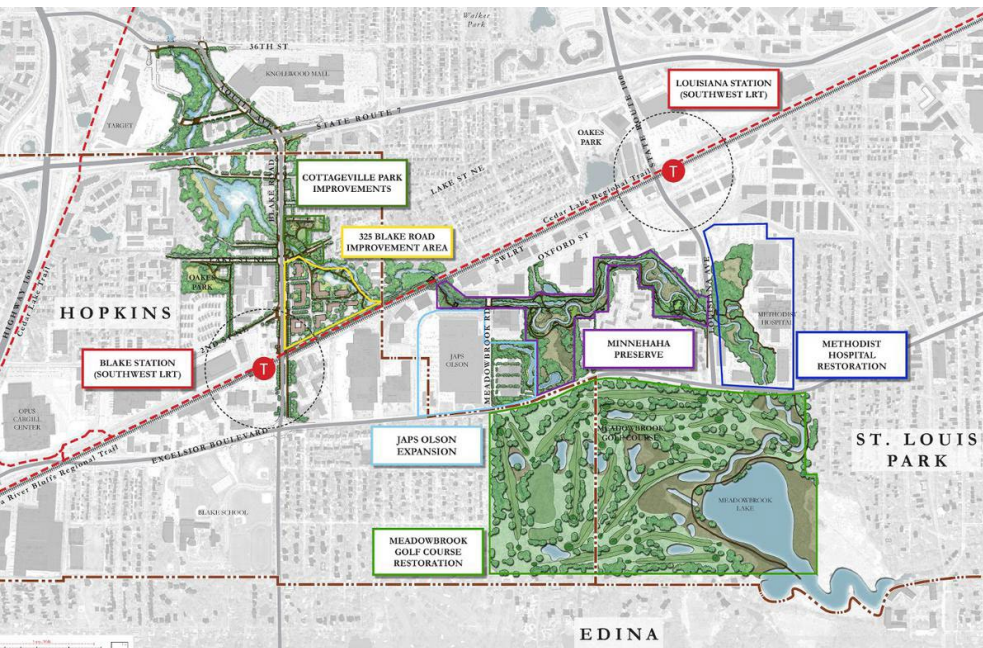

Values are core beliefs about what is intrinsically important or desirable. Sometimes people use the word "principle".

- When you think about the communities you serve (e.g., cities, individuals, families, groups, businesses), what values come to mind?
- What words or ideas describe what is most important for our work?

Regional Vision

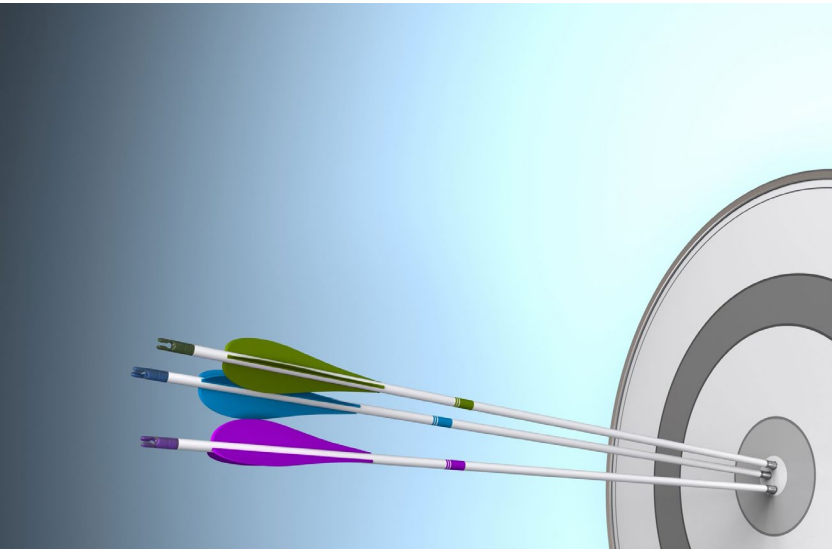

A vision is a description of an idealized future. It would arise from an "all hands on deck" approach to addressing our region's biggest problems, opportunities, and aspirations.

- What is “your” vision for the region or communities within it?
- How does the future look different?
- How do people experience the region in the future?

Regional Goals

In this exercise, goals are high-level outcomes or end-states that would represent areas of success toward achieving our vision.

- What specific goals or outcomes do we want to achieve for our region?
- How would we know we achieved them?
