New Metro Council Chair – and outgoing Transportation Committee Chair – Adam Duininck briefly attended the beginning of the meeting to express his thanks to committee members. He stated that Schreiber has agreed to serve as interim Chair of the Transportation Committee until new committee appointments are made. He asked that members share with him their preferences for committees on which they wish to serve; the committee structures will be named after the governor makes Council member appointments.

TAB LIAISON REPORT

In the absence of a TAB Liaison in the beginning of the meeting, Rodriguez stated that the TAB acted on the TIP amendments that are on the TC agenda today. When TAB Liaison Randy Maluchnik arrived, he reported from the 1/21 TAB meeting. He stated that the TAB welcomed a new representative from the City of Chanhassen – Denny Laufenburger. New TAC Chair Steve Albrecht was introduced and presented items from the TAC. Paul Oehme is Vice Chair of TAC, Tim Mayasich is the Funding & Programming Chair, and Lisa Freese is the TAC Planning Chair. TAB acted favorably on an item concerning TIP amendment public comment periods as noted in MTS Director McCarthy's comments below. The TAB was informed by Robert Lilligren that Chair Duininck proposed the 2015 Transportation Committee Work Plan include inviting more TAB members to the committee.

In response to Schreiber regarding the timing of naming a new TAB Chair, Maluchnik opined that the appointment of a TAB Chair should probably occur after new Metro Council members are named, as the Council is the body that appoints the TAB chair.

METRO TRANSIT GENERAL MANAGER AND DIRECTOR OF METROPOLITAN TRANSPORTATION SERVICES REPORTS

Metro Transit General Manager Brian Lamb reported:

1. Retirees recognized by peers, customers

A dozen employees with more than 30 years of service have celebrated their retirements this month, generating some much-deserved recognition from their peers and customers. Among those who have said goodbye in recent weeks is operator Mark Uzpen, who spent 42 years driving in and around St. Paul. Mark's story is even more remarkable when you consider that his brother retired with more than 40 years of service and his father, who began as a streetcar operator, retired with 46 years of service. Also among the recent retirees was Tony Taylor, who was named the Minnesota Bus Operator of the Year in 2013. Several former colleagues surprised Tony by boarding one of his final trips. The surprise was captured by the Star Tribune and WCCO (video shown to the Transportation Committee). These and other retirements have given us a great opportunity to highlight the work being done by our dedicated operators and other staff. They are also a reminder that this is the kind of place where people can build lasting careers. Nearly 200 of the 3,000 employees working alongside us have been here at least three decades and will retire in the coming years.

2. NexTrip information now available for LRT

Customers began seeing predicted real-time train departures along the METRO Blue and Green lines earlier this month as NexTrip testing began at all light-rail stations. The real-time information is displayed on overhead displays at stations and is also available through Metro Transit's desktop and mobile websites. Third-party apps can also share predicted real-time departure information using publicly-available GPS data. The system has proven reliable so far, but customers are still being invited to provide feedback about the new service through Customer Relations. NexTrip has been available for buses since 2008 and is also available for the METRO Red Line and Northstar. Customers requested NexTrip information through metrotransit.org more than 87.5 million times last year, a 78 percent increase from 2013. A formal presentation on NexTrip will be provided at a meeting soon.

3. Free ride promotions showcase transit

Metro Transit offered free rides to several large events over the weekend, including Red Bull Crashed Ice, the Winter Carnival Parade, the Beer Dabbler and Twins Fest at Target Field. Combined, 14,843 free ride passes were downloaded for the events. Metro Transit receives event advertising in exchange for the free rides and uses these opportunities to showcase transit to new or inexperienced riders.

MTS Director Arlene McCarthy reported:

1. Governor's Transportation package.

The Governor announced his Transportation package today. Materials were sent to council members. Please feel free to request more information; information will be shared as it becomes available.

2. Metro Mobility

McCarthy noted Metro Mobility action items on the agenda today. She shared the publication "Metro Mobility News" which is one of the ways that Metro Mobility communicates with its customers. Periodic meetings are also held with Metro Mobility riders throughout the region, along with regular electronic communications.

3. TIP amendment public comment periods.

The timelines for the TIP and regionally-significant TIP amendment public comment periods had not been officially established. While the full TIP has traditionally undergone a 45-day comment period, regionally-significant TIP amendments have not been consistent in that respect. Staff explored other large urban area MPOs and found public involvement periods ranging from 14 to 30 days. Staff recommended a 21-day period will suffice in providing ample time for public review without building in an unnecessarily long delay. TAB approved the policy at its meeting on January 21.

4. MVST Update

December MVST numbers were strong at 111% of the November 2014 forecast. The first 6 months of the State Fiscal Year is at an average of 101.44%.
